

ROYAL CARIBBEAN GROUP MODERN SLAVERY STATEMENT

Royal Caribbean Group, hereinafter “Company”, is the world’s second largest cruise company. We wholly own and operate three global brands: Royal Caribbean International, Celebrity Cruises, and Silversea Cruises. Through these brands, the Company operates a large and diverse fleet of ships on a selection of worldwide itineraries that call on hundreds of destinations across all seven continents.

This statement was prepared pursuant to the United Kingdom’s Modern Slavery Act of 2015, Australia’s Modern Slavery Act of 2018, Canada’s Fighting Against Forced Labour and Child Labour in Supply Chains Act of 2024, and related laws, as applicable, for the financial year ending December 31, 2024. It is published on behalf of the Company and its wholly owned brands.

The statement is signed by the Chief Executive Officer of the Company and approved by the Audit Committee of the Board of Directors. A signed copy is available upon request.

Our Commitment

We endorse the principles contained in the United Nations’ (“UN”) Universal Declaration of Human Rights and in the International Labour Organization’s (“ILO”) core conventions on labour standards. We are committed to respecting human rights and core labour principles in our business operations, and we approach and undertake this commitment seriously. More information is available in our Human Rights Policy.

Our Business

We place a high priority on conducting our business in compliance with the law and operating with the highest standards of business ethics. The Company’s Code of Business Conduct and Ethics (“Code”) sets forth the Company’s values and governs the ethical and legal conduct of our employees across our global operations, including our commitment to human rights and core labour principles and our condemnation of human trafficking and all forms of forced and child labour. All employees are trained on, and certify compliance with, the Code upon commencement of employment and at regular intervals thereafter. The Code is reviewed on an annual basis and is approved by our Board of Directors. We also provide specific content training on modern slavery to targeted employees within the supply chain and other functions in the organization.

Our Supply Chain

Our supply chain consists of suppliers servicing our newbuild, shipboard hotel and marine and shoreside operations. We are committed to transparent relationships with our suppliers. We act ethically and comply with the laws applicable to where we conduct business, and we expect that our suppliers will do the same in their business operations, including their dealings with their own suppliers and for the Company. These expectations and requirements are stated in the Company’s Supplier Code of Conduct (“Supplier Code”). The Supplier Code replaced and updated our Supplier Guiding Principles in 2023.

The Supplier Code also states our expectation that suppliers make the same commitment to human rights and core labour principles as we do by providing a safe and healthy workplace for their employees, prohibiting all forms of forced and child labour, ensuring compliance with applicable wage and hour laws, promoting an inclusive workplace free from harassment, discrimination, and abuse, and respecting legal rights on freedom of association and collective bargaining. Our purchase order terms and conditions with suppliers incorporate these expectations and reserve our right to inspect and audit records related to the supplier relationship to ensure obligations have been/are being met. We use a risk-based approach to manage our supplier relationships, including due diligence, human rights risk assessments, and internal processes, procedures, and controls. Periodic risk assessments of our business operations guide this approach.

Group Structure

We operate in the U.K. through RCL Cruises Ltd., and in Australia through a branch office of the same.

Our Silversea Cruises brand operates in the U.K. through Silversea Cruises (UK) Ltd. and in Australia through Silversea Cruises Australia Pty. Ltd.

Reporting

We encourage employees and suppliers to report known or suspected illegal and unethical conduct or activities to certain designated contacts, including our Global Compliance and Ethics Group or through the Company's Compliance and Ethics AWARE ("Address Wrongdoing As Responsible Employees") Hotline, which is accessible by phone or the Internet, 24 hours/day, 7 days/week. More information about the Company's Compliance and Ethics AWARE Hotline can be found in Our Code, Supplier Code, our corporate website, and at rclaware.ethicspoint.com. Reports are reviewed, and investigations and actions are taken when appropriate.

The above processes are periodically reviewed and/or updated to ensure they remain appropriate and effective.
